

HUMIE WEBBE

HERITAGE

Humie Webbe was raised in a Caribbean household shaped by music and history.

Her parents came from St Kitts and were proud of their roots.

Gospel from her mother, jazz from her father, and strong Caribbean traditions gave her a deep sense of identity and cultural pride.

WALES MEANS...

PRIDE HONOUR BELONGING

Humie describes herself as Welsh Caribbean, the two are inseparable.

Born in Cardiff with a strong Cardiff accent, Wales is part of who she is.

Visiting the Caribbean at eighteen deepened that identity, seeing Black people leading in every role and position.

“ MAINTAIN YOUR OWN STANDARDS. KNOW WHO YOU ARE, STAND FIRM IN YOUR VALUES. ”

COMMUNITY

CONTRIBUTION

Humie is proudest of caring for her autistic son and her father, challenging social care systems through lived experience.

She helped establish the Black Voluntary Sector Network Wales, strengthening capacity across Black community organisations.

Much of her work happens quietly; influencing policy, building organisations, and supporting others to become leaders.

STRENGTHS & JOY

A thoughtful advocate who values learning, integrity and strong standards.

She finds joy in music, language, Caribbean culture and sharing knowledge with others.
