

THE 'DWR' FAMILY

Y Dwr

In the early 1930s, when Will's grandson Neville was about 10 years old, he remembers his father and grandfather going out night fishing and waking up to a bath full of fish. It was Neville's job to cart the fish to Stanley Pearce, one of the Fishmongers in Carmarthen, or to the train station where the fish would get sent to Tenby or Cardiff.

Y Dwrs - father and son going fishing

Old Wil Y Dwr taught his grandson, Alan, the skill of coracle fishing and the proud grandfather watched as Alan Y Dwr took over the D2 licence and became a great fisherman like the rest of the family, including Edward Y Dwr and Billy 'Pom' Thomas among many others.

Bryn Richards in D2

Alan Y Dwr sorting a net with his fishing partner David Siggery.