

Picture of hopper where the blended wool was placed at the start of the blending process

Some of the rollers it went over during process

The finished product on reels ready for spinning