COWBRIDGE,

WITH THE VILLAGE OF LLANBLETHIAN AND NEIGHBOURHOODS.

COWBRIDGE is a parliamentary borough and small market-town, in the parish and hundred of its name, county of Glamorgan; 172 miles w. from London, 12 w. from Cardiff, and 7 E. from Brigend; situated in a pleasant fertile bottom, surrounded by a well cultivated country. The town consists chiefly of one long street, stretching from east to west, containing some well built houses, a town hall, and convenient market-house. It is a contributory borough, with Cardiff and Llantrissaint, in returning one member to parliament; and is governed by a mayor and two bailiffs, who are elected by the burgesses, the former officer for life, the latter annually. A court of record may be holden under the charter of Charles II., but the corporation do not avail themselves of the privilege; the only court is one of common council, held as occasion may require, for transacting the borough business. This place is without manufactures; and its trade, which is local and domestic, is chiefly supported by those engaged in agriculture, and by its market and fairs, which are tolerably well attended.

The places of worship are the parish church of Saint Mary, and chapels for Baptists, and Wesleyan and Calvinist Methodists. The living of Cowbridge is a rectory in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Gloucester. The only charity is an endowed grammar school, founded by Sir Leoline Jenkins, who was secretary of state in the reign of James II.; the revenue is about £40. per annum. The market is held on Tuesday; and there are seven fairs in the year—namely, first Tuesday in February, on the Tuesday before 25th March, May 4th, June 24th the first Tuesday in August, September 29, and the first Tuesday in December. The markets and fairs are well attended, and are chiefly for cattle of all kinds. The parish of Cowbridge contained, in 1841, 1,080 inhabitants; and in 1851, 1,067.

LLANBLETHIAN is a parish, in the hundred of Cowbridge; the village being situate about one mile w. from that town. There is nothing worthy of particular note connected with this parish—the population of which, in 1841, was 724; and in 1851, 767.

POST OFFICE, Cowbridge, Richard Felton, Post Master.—Letters from LONDON and parts EAST and SOUTH WALES arrive at six in the morning, and are despatched at five minutes before seven in the evening. LETTERS from the NORTH OF ENGLAND, WALES and SCOTLAND, arrive at twenty-five minutes past eleven in the forenoon, and are despatched at twenty minutes past eight in the morning. Money Order Office open from nine in the morning to half past five in the evening.
